

NAZI PROPOSAL TO RUMANIA

Million Dollars Distributed in 1939 to State's Jobless

Immediate Prospects of Merit Rating for Business With Good Employment Record — How Benefits Are Computed

Two million dollars in benefits was paid to unemployed workers last year by the Arkansas unemployment compensation administration—with approximately $1,000 a week being paid Hempstead county—Eli W. Collins, state director, told a public meeting at Hope city hall Tuesday night.

The complicated structure of the administration, founded on a section of the federal Social Security act, was explained at length by Mr. Collins, by Ben C. Shipp, chief of the state divisions; and by Carl E. Byrnes, Jr., chief of the contributions division. Ed L. McKinley, state commissioner of labor, also spoke. All were preceded by Blaine Ellington of the state office in Hope.

Unemployment compensation, Mr. Collins said, is not a relief program, but an earned right based on a record of earnings. The unemployed worker making application for benefits must be able and willing to work, and must be able and willing to work, director said.

Responding to questions in the round discussion which followed the public addresses, Mr. Collins added that the law, he said, there is no waiting period of two weeks before the date of application before an unemployed person may begin receiving compensation. But if an employer files notice with the state that an employee has quit voluntarily, and the facts bear this out, an additional five weeks' waiting period is imposed on the worker.

He can still draw the full 16 weeks' compensation pay, Mr. Collins said.

Penalty Is Delay Under certain circumstances it is possible to hold up payment of benefits to an unemployed worker for a period of nine weeks. That self is a pretty stiff penalty. We don't want to put ourselves in the position of hounding a man through his life simply because he has made a mistake.

The director pointed out, however, that absence from work because of illness is not a cause for forfeiture of benefits. This is a job insurance program, he said, and a healthy man may not draw benefits, of course, that his job is open to him when he recovers and returns to work. If his job has been filled in the meantime, and he is well and able to work, then he is not unemployed and he is not eligible for unemployment compensation.

"Rating Experience" Majority of the questions fired at the state director had to do with the "experience rating" system, or "experience rating" as it is known today. Unemployment compensation was founded on the idea that a five-year trial period the individual with a heavy unemployment record would be separated from industrial business having a light load, and would pay a relatively heavy tax, the other a relatively light tax, in proportion to the amount of money it had caused to be drawn out of the fund. The idea of this was to encourage employers to retain employees and put just as light a burden on the compensation system as possible.

Collins said he stood committed to the "experience rating" principle as just and equitable, but he felt that changes would have to be made in the law before the experience rating proposal could be put into effect. He pointed out that because of the fact that the system of experience rating was only three years (1937 and 1938) and has had a disappointing experience of only one year.

Director conceded, on question, that Arkansas actually had collected no tax on four years, although the law originally to Washington, D. C. was later refunded by act of Congress to Arkansas and four other states which did not get their state unemployment administrations organized in 1937.

One of the questioners pointed out the five-year trial period, counting payment of taxes for 1936, therefore be up at the end of the year. Collins replied that because of the fact that the system of experience rating was only three years (1937 and 1938) and has had a disappointing experience of only one year.

Mr. Shipp pointed out that benefits are computed by striking an average figure from the largest quarter-year earnings in the base year. The largest quarter-year earnings in this case was the $252 earned in the fourth quarter of 1938. One sixth of this $252 is $41.66. The law says the weekly average shall be computed to the nearest whole dollar, so $41.66 becomes an even $42 a week.

The worker draws this $42 a week for 16 weeks, his maximum draw against any base year, making a total of $672. He may draw this total of $672 in 16 weeks, or from time to time as he needs it—but it must be either drawn or waived within one year from the date of application. Because after the expiration of 12 months the worker's benefit right will be going against a new and different base year.

Love Quizz? Some Census Questions Mighty Personal

"That Man" Is Asking Questions at Your Door

DON'T BE SMART

Government Really Can Demand Confidential Replies

By NEA Service

WASHINGTON—Everybody has his own Confession Writer. Uncle Sam is going to give you a chance to write your own.

He is even going to send a man around to take it down.

That's the Census Taker. He'll be on every man's doorstep beginning April 1.

WHAT ARE YOU DOING TONIGHT??

They are the ones who will have the real fun.

They get a chance to tell all about their love-life—if they're women. No questions asked, if you're a man. But if that lucky 14th customer is a woman, then "How Many Times Married?" And "Age at First Marriage?" And

DO YOU HAVE RUNNING WATER?? I'M CHIEF RUNNING WATER??

Number of Children Ever Born?" And don't answer "All of 'em!"

It can cost you a fine up to $300 to refuse to give information to "The Man." That goes for giving phony information.

There will be a premium on quick thinking. Quick now! Is there running water inside your house, and is it "Pressure, gravity, or on tap, with bathtub or shower," or "Pressure, gravity, or on tap, without bathtub or shower," or perhaps "Hand pumped inside home," or even "No Water Inside Home."

If deductions are made from your wages or salary for Federal Old Age Insurance—hurry up now—it is deducted from "All of wages or salary" or is it "Part of wages or salary, one-half or more," or "Part of Wages or salary, under half," or is it just plain "None of wages or salary?"

What do you owe on the old home-stead? The Man will want to know that, and what you think the place would likely rent for if you were to rent it.

The old District Attorney question of "Where were you on the night of December 22?" doesn't come up quite in that form, but The Man will want to know whether you were at work, seeking work, or with a job during the week of August 6-12, 1939. Think hard, mate. Between August 6 and August 12—h'mmm! And "How many hours did you work that week?"

By the way, where were you living on August 4, 1934? The perennial question of who wears the pants in the household may come back to plague the census-takers as they define "homemaker" as "the woman, 16 years of age or over, responsible for the management of the home."

Ray Stannard Baker, the author, first attracted attention by his reportorial work on the march of "Voxey's Army" in 1894.

Magnolia Field Has 94th Oil Well

MAGNOLIA — The Magnolia field added its 94th producer Tuesday, when Vaughn-Longino's Jones D-1 on the north 30 acres of the northeast of the 1/4th east of section 21-17-20 began flowing.

It was cleaning itself in pits late Tuesday. Depth is 7,634 feet. It is in the Jones extension area.

Sulphur Springs Officials Face Federal Charges

FORT SMITH, Ark. —(AP)—The mayor and two constables of Sulphur Springs, Ark., were revealed Wednesday as defendants in federal indictments charging them with conspiracy with officials of the Southwestern Distilled Products, Inc., Arkansas liquor rectifying firm, to transport liquor into dry states.

Mayor W. C. Seiler and Constables Bill Kelly and Duke Brackney pleaded innocent before Federal Judge Heartill Ragon Wednesday, and their trials were set for April 20.

Republicans Win in Ohio Election

New Deal Setback Seen in Congressional Election

COLUMBUS, O. —(AP)—Republicans won two special congressional elections in Ohio Tuesday. In one they captured a Democratic seat. In the other they remained in power and named the state's first congresswoman.

The Seventeenth district, ordinarily Democratic, elected Republican J. Harry McGregor over Byron B. Ashbrook after a campaign in which the New Deal was a clearcut issue.

Complete unofficial returns: McGregor 22,437; Ashbrook 22,894.

The Twenty-second district, traditionally Republican, chose wealthy Mrs. Frances P. Bolton over Anthony A. Fleger.

Complete unofficial returns: Mrs. Bolton 40,882; Fleger 24,348.

McGregor succeeds Ashbrook's uncle, William A. Ashbrook, Democrat, who died January 1. Mrs. Bolton succeeds her husband, Chester C. Bolton, who died October 20.

McGregor, 43, contractor who has been Republican leader in the Ohio House, hailed the result as showing "a general trend away from the New Deal."

If the result in the Seventeenth district is to be taken as an indication of the general trend, then there is every reason to look forward to an early return of same government and prosperity throughout the nation," he stated.

Ashbrook, a banker, declared Gov. John W. Bricker called the special poll "for the sole purpose of giving his legislative rubberstamp and errand boy whatever advantage might be derived from this hurried-up election." Arthur L. Limbach, state Democratic chairman said November elections would "tell a different story."

The elections were declared by Governor Bricker to reflect "Ohio's resentment at the treatment it has received at the hands of the New Deal." He said "Ohio is firmly entrenched in the Republican column."

6 Beer Licenses in State Revoked

Makes Total of 10 Revoked by McCarroll Since Feb. 1

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. —(AP)—Revenue Commissioner Z. M. McCarroll revoked Tuesday the operating permits of six retail beer distribution establishments.

He said the revocations were on official information furnished his office by the Brewers and Arkansas Beer Distributors committee and subsequently investigated by revenue department agents.

The revocations brought to 10 the permits which McCarroll has cancelled since Feb. 1 on recommendation of J. Hugh Wharton, state director of the committee which recently opened a "clean-up of close-up" campaign in relation to retail beer businesses.

In seven years—1931 to 1938—the homicide rate among the policy-holders of a large insurance company dropped from 7.0 per 100,000 to 4.4 per 100,000. The latter figure is 37 per cent lower than the figure for 1931 and 36 lower than the average for the two decades immediately preceding 1938.

3,000 Homeless in California Cities After Cloudburst

Berkeley Suffers $100,000 in 10 Minutes Wednesday

BIG CROP DAMAGE

Streams On Rampage in Northern Part of California

SAN FRANCISCO —(AP)—A cloudburst sent three raging streams down on Berkeley, Calif., and caused damage estimated at $100,000 within 10 minutes Wednesday.

Harry Goodrich, city engineer at Berkeley, who estimated the damage, said the most severely struck sections "look like they had been hit by an earthquake."

Already floods had forced some 3,000 persons from their homes and caused property and crop damage running into hundreds of thousands of dollars.

California Floods

SAN FRANCISCO —(AP)—Waterways turned to torrents by cloudbursts and melting snow, drove as many as 3000 persons from their homes Tuesday in a score of more Northern California cities.

Almost nine inches of rain fell in 24 hours at several points.

The storm, in its third day, left river conditions critical. More rain was in prospect, and flood conditions equalling the ravages of December, 1937, were predicted by the weather bureau.

In the rich Sacramento valley, "the situation appears to be grave," the weather forecaster said.

In a town of Napa, 35 miles north of San Francisco, some 500 persons were rescued from flooded homes by boats.

At Winters, 14 miles southwest of Woodland, 300 persons in a federal migrant camp were isolated and marooned after two feet of water swept through their temporary shelters. In another migratory camp near Marysville, 450 persons were removed to high ground.

The 500 persons in Pescadero, 50 miles south of San Francisco, found half their town under water at dawn.

Despite the grave danger to hundreds of persons, and the peril of the rescues, no loss of life had been reported.

No one could count the damage, but great destruction to crops, and some livestock, was inevitable.

Three Southern Pacific lines were blocked, temporarily cutting rail service between California and the Pacific Northwest, and crippling service to Santa Cruz, Calif.

At Redding some 300 houses were in from one to four feet of water, and rescue squads said all the families would be removed by Tuesday night.

To Oakland across the bay from San Francisco, a hundred or more persons were flooded out of homes, but damage in that section was not great.

A number of towns were without power or light service the greater part of the day due to failure of transmission systems.

Red Lanterns Show White Hope of Peace

LOCARNO, Switzerland —(AP)—Red lanterns hang from the chimney pots of farm houses and villages in Italian Switzerland. They'll stay there until Europe's war is over.

The Italian Swiss, ardent Catholics, began the custom centuries ago. Whenever war raged in Christian countries they hung red lanterns from their rooftops to remind themselves and passer-by to pray for peace in the world.

The lanterns hung in place from 1914 to 1918. Some of them were hung again during the Spanish war. In September, 1938, they were lighted and attached to the chimney pots again.

Favorite place for the lanterns is on the village church spires, but many a simple peasant and villager keeps his own lantern burning.

500 British Volunteers Enroute to Northern War Front

BUCHAREST, Rumania —(AP)—A threatening quarters said Wednesday that Germany had offered to guarantee Rumania's borders in return for huge increases in oil, wheat and other raw material shipments to the reich.

These sources said the plan was submitted while the Rumanian cabinet was considering issuing a royal decree for virtual civil mobilization to accompany military mobilization which is already underway in part.

Acceptance of the German plan, it was said, would oblige Rumania to abandon her plan for civil mobilization, and send at least 1,000,000 of her 1,400,000 men under arms back to jobs in the fields and factories.

Authoritative quarters said it was doubtful whether Rumania would accept the plan because of prices and the virtual Nazi monopoly of her exports—which is considered far too high.

Volunteers to Finland

LONDON —(AP)—About 500 British volunteers, members of the international brigade organized to help Finland against Russia, were disclosed Wednesday to be already on their way to the northern war front.

The first contingent comprises about a quarter of the international force enlisted by Britain to give unofficial military aid to the Finns.

It was reported that Kermit Roosevelt, son of the late President Theodore Roosevelt, was considered for the post commander brigade by Field Marshal Mannerheim, Finland's defense chief.

Slow Up Red Attack

HELSINKI —(AP)—Finnish bombing planes continued to strike at Russian communications and troops concentrations while land forces repelled a continued Red army attempt to follow its advantage on the Karelian isthmus, the Finnish army's communiqué said Wednesday.

The communiqué, however, gave but little indication of the extent of isthmus fighting which is believed to be raging unrelentingly in intensity.

The high command, in only a brief reference to Russia's important drive on Viipuri on the Karelian isthmus, said the "enemy suffered heavily" in fighting in which the Finnish troops "fought defensive actions."

Food Situation

LONDON —(AP)—Germany learned a lesson in the last war and has kept her doors open to Russia, Italy and Rumania for supplies, David Lloyd George, world war premier, declared Wednesday.

"Frankly, in respect to food, we are not so well off as we were last time for a long war," he said.

Addressing the national defense and public interest committee, he urged the government to "make it clear" that air attacks on civilians would bring retaliation.

Welles Leaves for Talks With Hitler

U. S. Official Winds Up Conversations With II Duce

ROME —(AP)—Under-secretary of State Sumner Welles, left early Wednesday for Zurich, Switzerland, en route to Germany to meet with Adolf Hitler and German Foreign Minister von Ribbentrop on his fact-finding tour of Europe as President Roosevelt's personal emissary.

Visibly tired from his round of conferences here, Welles entrained after he and Myron C. Taylor, Mr. Roosevelt's envoy to the Vatican, launched through the opening stages the president's double-barreled peace initiative.

Earlier, he had bid farewell to United States Ambassador William Phillips at his host during his Rome stay.

Welles will reach Zurich in mid-afternoon Wednesday and proceed to Berlin Thursday, arriving Friday morning.

While Welles spent Tuesday in conferences with the British, French and German ambassadors, Taylor delivered to Pope Pius XII Mr. Roosevelt's assurances of American collaboration to bring together a Europe divided against itself.

Reflecting the information of these conversations was the simple ceremony at which Taylor established himself as Mr. Roosevelt's "channel of communication" between the White House and the Vatican.

Cataracts Will Not Respond to Any Kind of Medication Applied to Eyes

Ism Salesmen Fill Jails
It has seemed a little quiet lately, it may be because quite a few of the gentlemen who would like to peddle undemocratic forms of government in these United States have been in jail for their meditations in peaceful jail cells.

The term, "cataract," refers to a condition in which the lens of the eye becomes clouded. The lens is a crystalline substance, is used to focus light on the back of the eye. A cataract is not a film growing across the eye. It is a physical change in the tissue which is like the frosting of a clear windowglass.

There is no evidence that any of the vitamins now known is specific in stopping the growth and development of a cataract or in curing one. The rate at which the cloudiness increases varies with every patient. Some times there may be a little cloudiness which will remain static for years before it becomes sufficient to cause real distress.

pay-offs at Oaklawn park Tuesday—
if you held the right tickets—came out together.
For five races the form players were led a dizzy pace before Out of Fire came through in the sixth to pay the even-money price of $140.
Jay D. Bane, a field horse, topped off the occasion by winning the featured fourth race and paying a hatful to the time of $39.40 for a $2 dust.
A four-year-old brown gelding, Jay D. Bane came from behind to win by a scant nose in a blanket finish with two star players, Chiefs Boy and Nicholas S. The favorite, Absconder, finished fourth.
High Pressure started it all by winning the first race and paying $21.70. Ferry Boat paid $21 in the second and brought the lucky daily double ticket holders a pay-off of $208.80.
Terra paid $16.70 in the third, Jay D. Bane added his bit in the fourth race and Plenty Charm kept it going in the fifth with a price of $21.30.
Out of Fire then came to the rescue of those who like to wager on the favorites. Schuchter followed in the seventh by coming under the wire with a price of $5.70 and Ebony Parasol paid $5.20 to win the eighth.
The day's card was made up of seven claiming races and one for three year-old maidens.

Laughter

Laughter saves the heart from breaking. Keeps the tired flesh from aching. Laughter keeps the burdens lighter. And the eyes with twinkles brighter. None while laughing can remember Be this April or December. No one in the joy of laughter. Thinks that grief may follow after. Laughter 'til what starts it passes. Is a leveler of classes. Who can think of grief or money hearing, seeing something funny? Solemn peachments oft divide us. Selfish interests hard may ride us. But when laughter is incite All who share it are united. —Selected.

Production Hike in Auto Industry

Increased Output Begins Earlier Than Expected

DETROIT (AP)—The motorcar industry is swinging back into high level production activity much earlier than generally had been expected after a "seasonal" tapering off. Trade circles are speculating upon what part war orders, on hand and in prospect, may have in the upturn.

The increased output volume not only is contra-seasonal but it has started at a time when retailers' stocks are fairly well filled and production is slightly in excess of consumer demand. Because of these circumstances there is a definite disposition in some circles of the industry to believe that a heavy stocking of dealers is being pressed directly.

Ward's Reports, in its current issue, took note of "other business" coming into the motor plants. "Aside from orders placed for trucks and continuing to be placed," it said, "there is other business gradually creeping into the motor and supplying plants." It referred to "educational" orders placed by the War Department for shell casings, steel stampings, marine engines, plane engine parts and others, and added that a check-up of citizenship already has taken place at Packard, Cadillac, Plymouth, Dodge and other plants where such business is under way.

There is no disposition anywhere in the industry to doubt that retail demand will absorb all the present high level output of cars and trucks. There is a feeling in some responsible quarters that the industry may even develop 1940 into its third highest production year.

The resumption of production in excess of 100,000 units a week began considerably ahead of the anticipated upsurge in consumer demand that has yet to get started. To make the current calendar year the third highest in the industry's history an assembly volume of slightly more than 4,600,000 units must be reached. The highest production mark in motorcar history was 5,600,000 vehicles assembled in 1929; second highest was 5,000,000 in 1937.

Lower Prices Hinted
Ward's Reports mentioned gossip concerning the possible appearance of a new group of low-priced vehicles described as designed for "economy and salability." Ford is known to be working on a six-cylinder engine; Nash has been installing tools for a low-priced unit and Packard which did experimental work on such a car a few years ago is understood to be considering reviving it. Ford long has been surveying the possibilities of a car priced lower than any now in production. Should he bring one out within the next few months it is more than a fair assumption that his leading competitors in the present lower price field will do likewise.

Prospects for '40 State Crops Good

No Damage From Cold Weather in Southwest Area

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Assistant Extension Director H. E. Thompson announced that Arkansas crop prospects for 1940 were good although there was no damage from cold weather in the Northwest Arkansas and other scattered areas by prolonged sub-freezing temperatures.

He said the winter weather had been generally beneficial to agriculture in most sections of the state because the rains and snows that had fallen had come rather slowly, allowing the soil to retain a high percentage of moisture.

From J. F. Rains, district agent for Southwest Arkansas, came the report that most counties in his district still had a deficiency in moisture. He said there had been no damage to peaches in that area and that the cold spell had retarded premature budding. "The prolonged cold weather, while probably contributing to decreased boll weevil activity this spring, has caused farmers to need an extra amount of feed to carry livestock through the winter," Rains said, "and will mean a shortage of feed for making crops in some cases."

When Land Disputes Were Settled By Treaty

GRAND FALLS, Me.—(AP)—An obscure monument, perched on a 100-foot eminence four miles from the northern Maine village, stands as a memorial to the friendship of two great nations and a war that was never fought.

The rusted, six-foot shaft of solid iron marks the northeastern angle of Maine's border with Canada and commemorates the Treaty of Washington which, settled a rabid boundary dispute in 1842.

Both British and Maine troops were mobilized in 1839 for the "Aroostook War" in an endeavor to establish respective claims to the boundary. But a truce halted it at the last moment and the dispute was settled by treaty.

Murder Trial Date Set for March 5

Pair Plead Not Guilty to Hitchhike Slaying in Louisiana

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP)—Mrs. Claude D. Henry, 24, and her alleged companion, Horace Finnon, 23, were indicted here Tuesday by the Calcasieu parish grand jury on murder charges in connection with the slaying of Joseph P. Calloway, Houston salesman, in a rice field.

Shortly afterward the two stood side by side without emotion and pleaded innocent to the charges. The court fixed trial for March 5 and a local legal firm was tentatively employed to defend them.

Sheriff Henry Reid said Calloway was stripped of his clothes, shot and robbed and his body left in a rice field by a couple he picked up as hitchhikers.

The woman was arrested in Shreveport, La., and the man in Arkansas and removed to Lake Charles.

SERIAL STORY

$15 A WEEK BY LOUISE HOLMES

COPYRIGHT, 1940, NEA SERVICE, INC.

YESTERDAY, Ann finds the young man from across the alley in the library, wearing a gardenia. She speaks to him, tries to make conversation, but he is strangely distant. Finally she notices an old man, also wearing a gardenia. He reads her letter. They both realize that the young man is giving them away. Ann sees, hurt and angry.

CHAPTER VII
ANN pulled her blind that night before switching on the light. Doing so, she averted her eyes, refusing to glance across the alley. Of one thing she was sure. The next day, or Monday at the latest, she would find another room. She would not run the risk of meeting the young man on the street. He'd never get the chance to laugh at her again, or snub her. She got into the thin bed and cried herself to sleep.

She dared not leave her room on Sunday. She might run into the young man and he'd think she had tracked him down. She worked up quite a hate toward the young man before evening.

She was in low spirits Monday morning. She had followed her one little ray of light and it had led her to the most humiliating experience of her life.

Ann disciplined herself while eating breakfast. It was just as well that the incident in the library had turned into a fiasco. Just suppose the young man across the way had been K295. The outcome might have been disastrous to her plans. She even went so far as to reluctantly admit that he had appealed to her and she wanted none of that sort of thing.

A little of her sense of humor returned at this point. She certainly need not worry about an amorous entanglement with the young man across the alley. He had plainly demonstrated his unwillingness to make friends with her. However, to avoid any further embarrassment, she would move. That was settled.

SHE worked hard through the morning. Mrs. Pringle asked, "Did you see a show, Ann?" and she answered, "No, I wasn't in the mood for a show."

At noon she went for a walk. Thinking about her prospective move, she decided to consult the 10-cent store girl. Perhaps she might know of a place. She went to the notion counter and her friend came to wait on her.

"Hello, kid," she said. "How did the dress turn out? Always Ann's heart warmed to the girl. She had a gift of charm, a real and unfeigned interest.

"No, I went down to the library."

"That must have been exciting." The girl made a little face.

"You'll never know how exciting it was," Ann laughed. She could laugh at the absurd incident now.

"Look," her friend said, "I'm going back for a sandwich. Come with me—let's talk."

"If I sit with you but I've had my lunch."

"All right, sit with me."

She started to leave her place, then turned back as a stock man rolled a loaded truck to the counter. Her expression became arch as she smiled invitingly. The stock man spoke and Ann whirled. That voice—

"The voice said, 'The long zip-pers won't be in until tomorrow.' And, as Ann whirled, 'Well, it's Miss Gardenia.'"

He grinned at her, impudently, she thought. "Did you find your friend?" he asked.

Ann stared. "You needn't take that tone. How and where I meet my friends is no concern of yours."

"It seemed to be more or less my concern Saturday night."

"I'm sure you have the intelligence to recognize a mistake when you see one." Sarcasm edged her tone. "If you had any tact you wouldn't embarrass me by referring to it."

"I guess a girl with your nerve can get along all right."

Ann was furiously angry. "I want you to understand that I don't go around picking up strange men in public places."

"No?"

"And if I did wish to start a flirtation you would be the last person in the world whom I'd choose." She drew a long, wrathful breath.

"All right," he said good naturedly. "Shall we skip it?"

"What's your name?" the girl asked.

"Ann Brown." She bit her under lip. Angry tears threatened.

"He makes me—mad," she muttered. "Of all the conceited, pig-headed, insulting—"

"Gee, kid—don't get sore. What's it all about?"

Ann told briefly of her meeting with the stock man. "He was wearing a white gardenia in his lapel—how did I know that half the men in Chicago were wearing gardenias?" she asked.

"The 10-cent store girl giggled and, after a moment, Ann's face cleared. 'I don't see what's so funny about it,' she grumbled."

"Imagine it happening to Paul," the girl giggled. "It's simply a se-rem. All the girls are crazy about him and he shows 'em the deadpan. Girl—what's that's his trouble. Then you come along and collar him in the public library—Oh, it's a se-rem."

"Is that his name—Paul?"

"Uh-huh—Paul Hayden. He started to work here about a month ago. Isn't he the keenest looking thing?"

"Not to me, he isn't. The thing that makes me so furious is that he thinks I'm cheap. He didn't believe a word I said about it being a mistake Saturday night. He thinks I trailed him in here."

"Don't be turned up, Ann. He doesn't think so now. You cooled him good." She changed the subject. "My name is Clara Brooks—funny how we got to be friends without knowing each other's names—anyway, I'm telling you because I got a proposition for you."

Ann raised her eyebrows inquiringly. Her feathers were still ruffled by the second encounter with Paul Hayden.

"Look," Clara began. "My roommate got married last Saturday. She and Jim made up their minds all of a sudden and it sorta leaves me on a limb. I got a nice little joint but it costs too much for me to keep alone. I just thought maybe you'd like to come in with me if you ain't fixed too good."

Ann decided on the instant. "That's funny, Clara," she said. "I came in to ask you about a place. I want to move—I'm going to move."

Her brow darkened again. If Paul Hayden ever learned that she had been snooping at him from her window he'd have another score against her. Glancing across the store, she found his eyes upon her. He was grinning. The beast. She turned her back on him.

Give Warning on Wage & Hour Law

Interstate Commerce Firms Are Duly Cautioned

All Arkansas business firms engaged in interstate commerce or the production of goods for interstate commerce are warned to immediately comply with record-keeping requirements of the Wage and Hour Administration, if they are not already doing so, by C. Wage and Hour Inspections in Arkansas have reflected that many employers in this State are not keeping an accurate record of the number of hours worked each day by each employee, as the law requires, according to Mr. Street, who pointed out that by

Pacific Coast Offers Three Prize Recruits for Big League Baseball

By DILLON GRAHAM
Sports-Editor, Ap-Futura Service
The big leagues learned long ago that Italian boys from California go to the top. They are good baseball players. That's why a trio of young Romans from the Pacific Coast league look like sure bets in the majors next summer. Topping the trio is another DiMaggio, the youngest of the establishing family, named Dominic. The others are Dominic Dallesandro, a shunty little outfielder and Julio Bonetti, a right handed pitcher.

With famous brother Joe as the American league batting champion for the Yankees and brother Vince an outfielder contender with the Cincinnati Reds, Dominic hopes to carve a spot for himself in the Boston Red Sox outfield.

Playing with San Francisco, Dominic was one of the league's leading batters with a .360 average. Lefty O'Doul, the Seals' manager, says the third DiMaggio is a better base runner and just as good a fielder and thrower as Joe. He doesn't hang out the homers like Giuseppe but he is just as hard to get out.

Julio Bonetti, a rookie for the Red Sox, personally scouted Dominic and is so convinced of his ability that he let veteran Joe Vespiak go to make room for the rookie.

Dallessandro, who won the Coast batting championship with .365—highest figure in five years—may be a Chicago Cubs regular. Dallessandro has been up before. Three years ago he was with the Red Sox but bumped into a batting slump. Boston sent him to San Diego in part payment for Ted Williams. Dominic is built along the lines of the one-time Cub great, Hack Wilson.

The Cubs also got Bonetti, Julio had a great year with Los Angeles, winning 20 games and losing five. A control pitcher with a sinker, he has a good curve and tossed 16 straight innings without allowing a base on balls. He spent part of 1937 and 1938 seasons with St. Louis.

Cubs Get Angels' Battery
The Cubs also have Pitcher Al Epperly and Catcher Bob Collins of Los Angeles. Pitcher Nick Strincovich of Sacramento gets a chance with the Boston Bees. Infielder Joe Orango and Outfielder Elvin Adams of Sacramento get further trials with HOLLYWOOD—A good deal of news is written about Hollywood airplanes, and if all the celebrities who are licensed to fly are counted, the sky would look like an approach to a cloud of confusion.

Chesterfield's Twin Pleasures are Real Mildness and Better Taste

You can't mistake the extra pleasure you get from Chesterfields.

Because of their right combination of the world's best cigarette tobacco, Chesterfields give you a cooler, smoother-tasting and definitely milder smoke.

You can't buy a better cigarette.

Jack and Bob Heasley

When the HEASLEY TWINS, stage and screen skating stars, perform for your pleasure, it's almost impossible to tell which is which... but you can't mistake the twin pleasures you get in Chesterfield's REAL MILDNESS and BETTER TASTE.

The Cool... DEFINITELY... Better-tasting...

WETHE WOMEN

By RUTH MILLETT

It is up to every mother to teach her daughter to be a home-maker. The mother who says "I couldn't boil an egg when I was married—and I learned to do it in the kitchen" is doing her daughter a disservice.
